Comprehensive US drug market analysis (IQVIA Rx). The latest weekly Total Prescription YoY growth (week ending 10/30) was +5.2% vs. +4.4% last week and +2.6% over the past 12 weeks.

For the week ended Oct 30, US total market weekly TRx YoY change was +5.2% vs. -0.2% year ago. Rolling 4-week TRx YoY was +4.3% and rolling 12-week TRx YoY was +2.6%. Extended unit (EUTRx) weekly YoY growth was +3.8%, below TRx YoY (Exhibit 11). Sequential weekly TRx growth was -0.4% compared to +0.3% week before. Exhibit15 – Exhibit17 depict YoY momentum for key products. See details within.

We are providing an interactive (Interactive) below: The interactive plots important metrics for total market and launch curves, growth, Rx share and other insights by Therapeutic category For the most navigable layout, we recommend viewing the interactive in full screen. If switching to full screen after opening, please refresh the page.

GILD's Yeztugo (lenacapavir) was approved for PrEP on 6/18/2025. Latest week, total TRx (oral + injectable) were ~2,100 vs. ~2,100 previous week, and last week, TRx for injectable were ~1,350 vs. ~1,350 previous week. Using a linear method, we project the weekly injectable TRx needed to achieve 4Q26 cons of $349mn, utilizing 3Q26 implied $/script (Exhibit 1) but acknowledging we have limited visibility here at this point in the launch. Bigger picture, we note Yeztugo's persistence rate is >70%, and it has already secured 95% payor coverage. Moreover, most payers do not require copays, and only a limited number have prior authorization or step-edit requirements, which is an indication that most payers are aligning with USPSTF guidelines. For context, we model 2026 Yeztugo sales of $1,046mn US ($1,085mn WW) vs. VA cons $1,023mn US ($992mn WW)) and GILD's US guidance of ~$1.0bn.

JNJ's Icotyde, partnered with Protagonist (not covered), was approved for the treatment of moderate-to-severe plaque psoriasis on 3/18/26 (LINK). Prescriptions were ~2,140 for the week vs ~2,010 last week. On JNJ's 3Q26 earnings call, mgmt highlighted continued strong early launch momentum, with >20k patients initiated and >9k unique prescribers in the U.S.. ~60% of patients are systemic-treatment naïve, while 20% are switching from oral therapies and the remaining 20% from biologics, which mgmt noted are other MOA classes rather than IL-23s (vs. 65%/20%/15% prior). Commercial access has expanded meaningfully, with preferred access across all national commercial plans, and JNJ is working to expand Medicaid and Medicare coverage. Mgmt noted that the IQVIA TRx capture rate improved to ~30–40% in 3Q (vs. ~25–30% in 2Q) and should continue to increase as recently secured commercial payer coverage takes effect (see our takeaways HERE). As such, we believe early IQVIA script data may continue not fully capture underlying prescribing dynamics. We estimate that achieving 2026 U.S. consensus revenue of $ 201 mn would require Icotyde TRx to ramp broadly in line with Otezla/Rinvoq. This implies ~24-32k TRx are required in 2026, assuming a $8,285/month list price and 0–25% gross-to-net. We also compare Icotyde's launch trajectory to recent psoriasis biologic and oral launches, alongside our estimated path to consensus and new starts (see Exhibit 2).

MRK's Lipfendra (enlicitide; once-daily oral PCSK9i) was approved for emia (LDL lowering; incl. HeFH) on 7/16/26 (LINK). Prescriptions were ~3,430 for the week vs. ~3,110 last week. We use a $10.50/day WAC ($315 per 30-day script) and, assuming a ~25% gross-to-net (GTN), estimate a net price of ~ $239/script, in line with Repatha's DTC price (per TrumpRx), although we currently have limited visibility into Lipfendra-specific pricing. This implies ~102K TRx are required to achieve the 4Q26 VA cons estimate of $24mn (see Exhibit 3). We use WW consensus sales for 4Q26 as a proxy for U.S. sales, as consensus does not currently break out Lipfendra geographically; given approval to date is limited to the U.S., we view this as a reasonable approximation. At our HC conference in September, management reiterated that MRK's strategy is to expand the PCSK9 market, which it noted is only ~5% penetrated by current therapies (see our takeaways HERE). On 3Q EPS, mgmt characterized the early launch as encouraging, citing >11k prescriptions across >6,500 prescribers, including primary care physicians. The vast majority of prescriptions are coming from patients on other background lipid-lowering therapies rather than switches from injectable PCSK9s, and as a result MRK is seeing market expansion, consistent with our survey (LINK). While prescription trends are positive, mgmt. expects a gradual uptake trajectory given inertia in the lipid-lowering market.

BMY's Cobenfy was approved for schizophrenia on 9/26/24. Scripts are ~3,200 for the week vs ~3,400 last week. We estimate that to achieve 2026 consensus expectations, ~161K Cobenfy TRx are required to reach consensus estimate of $237mn (assuming a ~$1,435 net price). We also show the Cobenfy launch to date and our estimate of the trajectory to achieve consensus relative to recent anti-psychotic launches, with TRx combined across all indications, in Exhibit 4 below for reference as well.

VRTX's Journavx was approved for acute pain on 1/30/25. Scripts are ~41,400 for the week vs ~39,700 last week. VRTX notes that hospital scripts are not captured by IQVIA - hospital/retail mix 45%/55% in 2025, and it reiterated in Aug 2026 that the average script duration is 10-11 days (LINK). To achieve 2026 VA cons estimate of $ 216 mn, we estimate that ~ 3.0 / 2.0 mn total scripts are needed for 11-day script duration at GTN of 80%/70% respectively. Based on quarterly Journavx sales and scripts, we estimate the GTN to be around 77% for the past two quarters. Using a linear method, we project the weekly TRx needed to achieve cons estimate, by flexing the GTN from 70% to 80% for 11-day scripts (Exhibit 6). In addition, we include a line where the actual scripts are grossed up with estimated hospital scripts.

Immunology pricing analysis. We updated the charts for 3Q26 (Exhibit 42 - Exhibit 47). We have divided the historical quarterly reported sales for Stelara, a, Skyrizi, Rinvoq, Dupixent, and Cosentyx with respective quarterly IQVIA see how volume from additional indications impacts price/script.

IQVIA total market prescription and sales trends

The IQVIA databases are different for prescription (Rx) and sales ($), and the IQVIA sales dollars only reflect list prices of drugs and not rebates/discounts. TRx represents total prescription dispensed including refills. NRx represents new prescriptions —that is, all scripts written except refills. However, the NRx also includes renewals—the script patients get when they run out of refills.

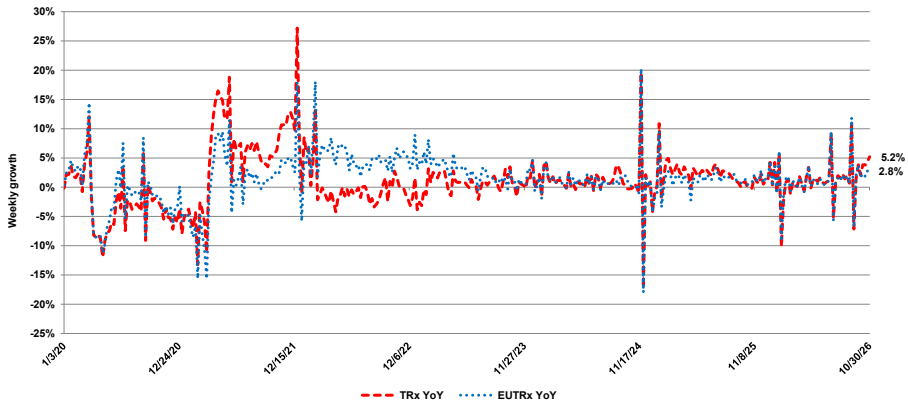

Extended unit (EU) data trends were more positive than prescription (Rx) trends, suggesting physicians were writing more 90-day prescriptions during that period (Exhibit 10 and Exhibit 11). EU figures (EUTRx / EUNRx) may represent a more accurate picture of demand because they take into account larger/longer-duration prescriptions, while NRx / TRx figures count both a 30-day and a 90-day prescription the same.

AMGN's Kanjinti launched in July-19 and has gained share rapidly. Mylan/Biocon's Ogivri launched on December 2, 2019, PFE's Trazimera was launched on February 19, 2020, and Teva's Herzuma was launched on March 16, 2020. OGN's Ontruzant was launched on April 16, 2020, and data are available from Jun-20 in IQVIA. We have also added Daiichi's brand drug Enhertu (Novel brand), which was launched in Dec-19 and is approved for treating HER2-positive breast cancer.

Humira

Humira first biosimilar, AMGN's Amjevita, has had slow launch based on IQVIA TRx (data are restricted). Three other biosimilars have launched, out of which two (Hadlima and Hyrimoz) have started to appear in IQVIA but have limited TRx data due to data restriction, as further discussed above.

Lucentis

BIIB's and Samsung Bioepis's Byooviz was launched on June 2, 2022, and data are available from Jul-22 in IQVIA. Coherus's Cimreli was launched on October 3, 2022. IQVIA (announced on 11/4/22) prescriptions are restricted, due to a contractual condition between a supplier and the manufacturers.

Neulasta

Neulasta biosimilar, Biocon's Fulphila, market share (monthly sales) has flattened after January inflection, but there may be a reporting restriction in place. Biocon's Fulphila (biosimilar Neulasta) sales are available in IQVIA in July 2018. On Aug. 24 2018, IQVIA noted that a reporting restriction was implemented in the mail channel for a portion of the sales and prescription volumes for Fulphila, due to a contractual condition between a supplier and the manufacturer. IQVIA has not been able to confirm restriction given that this supplier has never dispensed this product.

Sandoz's biosimilar Ziextenzo picked up share in 2H20 but has flattened since the launch of PFE's Nyvepria in January 2021.

Remicade

Remicade biosimilar PFE's Inflectra adoption has decreased in recent months. OGN's Renflexis is slow to be adopted. PFE's Inflectra has been on the market for >3 years (launched in mid Dec-16). MRK's Renflexis, launched in late July-17, started to appear in IQVIA from September, 2017 only. We believe payers are choosing not to support the biosimilar because the pricing is not low enough below the net pricing of branded Remicade and because they would lose branded rebates on existing Remicade patients who remain on the brand. AMGN's Avsola was approved on Dec. 6, 2019 and launched in July 2020. Pfizer has decided not to launch Ixifi in the US.

Rituxan

Teva's Truxima was launched in Nov-19 and is approved for all indications except pemphigus vulgaris (PV), which is immaterial. Pfizer's Ruxience launched on January 23, 2020. It currently lacks the rheumatoid arthritis (RA) and pemphigus vulgaris (PV) indications. Amgen's Riabini was launched in Jan-21 and was approved for RA on June 6, 2022. Per Roche, RA comprises ~20%+ of branded Rituxan sales. Commentary suggests that skinny labels are more of an issue for physicians than payers.

Neurology

Migraine

Exhibit 47: Migraine drugs with their MOA and approved indications

Drug name	Route	MOA	Indication
Aimovig (Amgen)	SQ	CGRP	Migraine prevention
Emgality (Eli Lilly)	SQ	CGRP	Migraine prevention, cluster headache
Ajovy (Teva)	SQ	CGRP	Migraine prevention
Ubrelvy (Abbvie)	Oral	CGRP	Acute treatment of migraine with or without aura
Qulipta (Abbvie)	Oral	CGRP	Migraine prevention
Nurtec (Biohaven)	Oral	CGRP	Acute treatment and Migraine prevention
Vyepti (Lundeback)	IV	CGRP	Migraine prevention
Revyow (Eli Lilly)	Oral	serotonin (5-HT) 1F receptor agonist	Acute treatment of migraine with or without aura
Zomig (Amneal)	Oral	serotonin (5-HT) 1B/1D receptor agonist	Acute treatment of migraine with or without aura

SQ= Injection for subcutaneous use; IV= Injection for Intravenous use.
Source: Morgan Stanley Research

Aimovig (AMGN) script trends: Amgen processes all claims via its hub in batches, and sometimes there are catch-ups in the figures sent to IQVIA.

Emgality (LLY) is also approved for treatment of cluster headaches. The approval was on June 4, 2019. We are unable to identify scripts by indication so Emgality TRx includes both migraine and cluster headache.

Ajovy is also available as auto-injector. Ajovy launched autojector on April 27, 2020.

TRx may not be a good metric for comparing the three drugs over time due to differences in dosing frequency. Amgen's Aimovig is dosed either 70 mg or 140 mg (70 x 2 injections) every month, Teva's Ajovy is dosed either 225 mg every month or 675 mg (225 x 3 injections) every three months, and Lilly's Emgality is dosed 120 mg every month but with a 240 mg loading dose administered as two consecutive 120 mg injections for the first month.

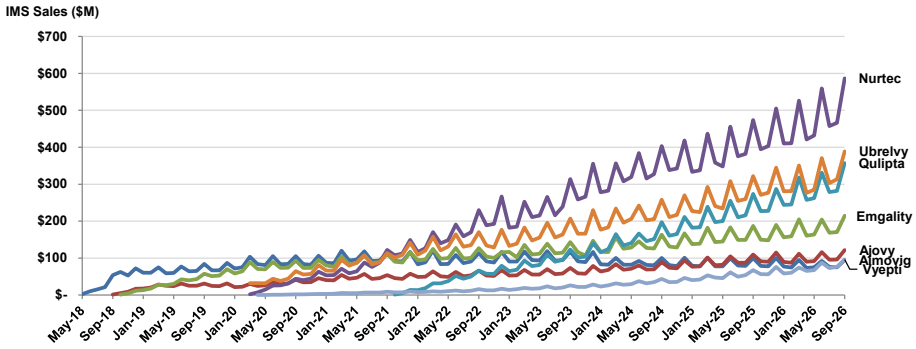

One TRx for one drug may represent different numbers of months of therapy and/or doses. For example, assuming simplistically that one TRx represents one course of treatment, one Aimovig TRx represents one month of drug, one Ajovy TRx could represent one or three months' worth of drug, and one Emgality TRx could represent one month but could be one injection or three injections (including loading dose).

Oral CGRP (Ubrelvy and Nurtec) launches are trending above injectable Emgality. Both Ubrelvy and Nurtec TRx launch trends are above Emgality (Exhibit 129) and orals continue to gain share in overall market (Exhibit 122 & Exhibit 123).

Definitions

TRx represents total prescriptions dispensed including refills.

NRx represents new prescriptions including renewals and excluding refills, so it does not represent new patient starts. Renewals are the scripts patients get to continue the drug when they run out of refills.

EUTRx / EUNRx (Extended Units) figures can represent a more accurate picture of demand because they include weighting of larger/longer duration Rx. Standard NRx / TRx / NRx count both a 30-day and a 90-day prescription the same. Counts include dispensed tablets, capsules, milliliters, and so forth. For solids, this is the number of tablets; for creams, grams; and liquids, mls.

NPA: "National estimates of prescriptions, or the rate at which drugs move out of the pharmacy and into the hands of a consumer via formal dispensed prescriptions".

NSP: "National sales estimates of product packages into retail drugstores, hospitals, clinics, and other nonretail type outlets".

NSP units: "Total amount of packages sold of a particular drug to the dispensing outlet/ chain/hospital."

NSP Price: "Is based on a number of sources, depending upon Class of Trade (Channel). It generally represents a best estimation of Net price without the impact of proprietary rebating by the manufacturer. Equation = Sales $ / Units".

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

NSP Sales $: "Total amount of the sales into the dispensing outlets, chain, and health care providers from the manufacturers and distribution centers expressed in US dollars."

IQVIA sales data (NSP) is captured weekly, and grouped into 4 or 5 week 'months.' The weeks start in January, so the 5 week month falls at the end of each quarter: March, June, September, and December. Periodically, an extra week is added in November to ensure that DDD reporting months do not deviate too far from calendar months.

Brief from IQVIA on NSP Price: Note that NSP reflects significant Class Of Trade discounts and is often well below Gross Price even though it does not reflect rebates manufacturers pay to payers. "Our NSP Sales $'s represent a trade price or transaction price. It is the actual cost that was charged to acquire the pharmaceutical products as seen on the purchase invoice. NSP is a projected database. What that means is IQVIA collects the data from the sample (which for NSP represents about 88%) and using IQVIA methodology, the data is projected to 100% of the universe. The prices reflected in IQVIA National Sales Perspectives™ are the prices outlets (i.e. pharmacies, hospitals, clinics) pay for the products, whether purchased directly from a manufacturer or indirectly via a wholesaler or chain warehouse. Invoice line item discounts are included. Prompt-payment discounts and bottom-line invoice discounts are not included. Rebates, typically paid by the manufacturer directly to a customer, insurer, or PBM (Pharmacy Benefits Manager), are not reflected."

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.
