纪要

Topic: GoTo Q3 2026 Earnings Time: 2026-11-02 19:01:08 Participants: 前沿信息收录 V:FCCNN88

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

GoTo Q3 2026 Earnings

Third consecutive quarter of net profit with strong fintech growth and updated outlook

Q3 Financial Performance

Group Operating Income	Adjusted EBITDA	Annual Transacting Users	Core GTV Growth
IDR 351B (+402B YoY)	IDR 950B (+84% YoY)	725M (+16% YoY)	+89% YoY

Updated 2026 Guidance

Group Adjusted EBITDA

- Guidance raised by IDR 300B
- New range: IDR 35–37 trillion
- Reflects strong operational leverage

Management confident in meeting targets despite macro headwinds

Fintech Segment

- EBITDA guidance increased to IDR 19–20T
- Up from previous IDR 17–18T
- Driven by massive operating leverage

Fintech remains the primary profit driver for the group

On-Demand Services

- Range widened to IDR 14–16T
- Accounts for regulatory flexibility
- Previously guided at IDR 14–15T

Buffer created for potential impact of new commission caps

Regulatory & Strategic Shifts

Commission Cap Implementation	Mass Market Pivot	Future Regulatory Risks
Two-wheeler cap reduced to 8% (from 20%)	Lower pricing introduced to reduce cost-to-serve	Food delivery & four-wheeler caps expected
Impact: IDR 150B in Q3	Transaction volumes grew 9% overall	Mitigated by diverse revenue streams
Business margin turned slightly negative	Mobility +10%, Delivery +7%	Merchant fees and ads provide buffer

Fintech Momentum

User & Volume Expansion

- Monthly transacting users up 26% to 30.4M
- Transaction volumes surged 86%
- Loan book grew 51% to IDR 12T

Strong user engagement driving rapid financial service adoption

Credit Risk Management

- Delinquencies rising due to macro softening
- Tighter policies for high-risk customers
- Active management of loan tenors

Proactive risk mitigation amidst challenging economic environment

Ecosystem Synergy

- 60% of loans originated via GoJek/GoPay
- Shift away from Tokopedia reliance
- Payments reached standalone EBITDA breakeven

Deep integration with core apps drives sustainable lending growth

Capital & Macro Context

Share Buyback

3% register repurchased (~IDR 1T)

Treasury Cancellation

322B shares (27% of register)

Cash Position

1.5billion ∗ ∗against ∗ ∗1.25 billion

Index Status

Removed from MSCI/FTSE; passive ou tflows complete

Strategic Summary

GoTo demonstrates regulatory resilience by leveraging fintech growth and mass-market volume strategies to offset on-demand margin pressures, while aggressively returning value through share buybacks amid a tough macro environment.

AI-generated content may contain errors; please verify details.

This conference call covers GoTo’ s Q3 2026 financial results, highlighting its third consecutive quarter of net profit and significant growth in the fintech segment. Management discusses the impact of new regulatory commission caps on the on-demand services business, provides an updated outlook for 2026 and 2027 amidst macroeconomic headwinds, and addresses strategic initiatives including share buybacks and mass-market product expansion.

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

Meeting Overview and Financial Highlights

- Q3 2026 Performance Summary
    - GoTo reported its third consecutive quarter of net profit, with group operating income reaching nearly 351 billion rupiah, a year-on-year increase of 402 billion rupiah.
    - Adjusted EBITDA stood at 950 billion rupiah, representing an 84% year-on-year growth.
    - Annual transacting users grew by 16% to 725 million, covering approximately one-third of Indonesia's adult population.
    - Core Gross Transaction Value (GTV) grew by 89%, while net revenue increased by 17%, heavily driven by the fintech sector.
- Updated Financial Guidance for 2026
    - Group adjusted EBITDA guidance was raised by 300 billion rupiah to a range of 35 to 37 trillion rupiah.
    - Fintech EBITDA guidance was increased from 17–18 trillion to 19–20 trillion rupiah.
    - On-demand services EBITDA guidance was widened to 14–16 trillion rupiah (previously 14–15 trillion) to account for regulatory flexibility, though management remains confident in meeting targets.

On-Demand Services Business Update

- Impact of Regulatory Commission Caps
    - An 8% commission cap for two-wheeler transport drivers was implemented on July 1, reducing the previous cap of 20%.
    - This regulation turned the two-wheeler transport business from profitable to slightly negative margin, with an estimated impact of 150 billion rupiah in Q3 2026, within the guided range of 300 billion rupiah for the second half.
    - Transport EBITDA fell 16% year-on-year to 159 billion rupiah, with margins compressing to 2.5%.
    - Management expects additional regulations for food delivery and four-wheeler transport, likely implemented in 2027, but does not anticipate the same negative margin impact as seen in two-wheeler transport due to diverse revenue streams

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

(merchant fees, advertising).

- Strategic Shift to Mass Market Products
    - To lower cost-to-serve, GoTo is introducing mass-market products with lower pricing, leading to a 9% growth in overall on-demand transaction volumes.
    - Transaction volumes grew 10% in mobility and 7% in delivery, serving as leading indicators for future GTV and revenue growth.
    - The food delivery business saw margins expand by 30 basis points year-on-year, with EBITDA reaching 227 billion rupiah (up 20%), remaining unaffected by current regulations.
    - In food delivery, cheaper "pooled" order options now account for about one-third of total orders, helping to drive volume growth without heavy discounting.
- Four-Wheeler and Geographic Strategy
    - The four-wheeler business is not subject to the 8% commission cap; GoTo is investing in a proprietary fleet and introducing segmented pricing (cheap vs. fast) to compete more effectively.
    - There are no current plans for geographic expansion beyond Indonesia, as management focuses on leveraging the unique ecosystem advantages (on-demand + fintech) in the domestic market.

Fintech and Digital Financial Services

- Fintech Growth and Profitability
    - Fintech EBITDA grew 304% year-on-year, driven by massive operating leverage as revenue growth outpaced fixed cost growth.
    - Monthly transacting users increased 26% to 30.4 million, with transaction volumes up 86%.
    - The loan book grew 51% year-on-year to 12 trillion rupiah as of end-Q3 2026.
    - The payments business has reached standalone EBITDA breakeven, though lending remains the primary profit driver.
- Credit Risk and Macro Impact
    - Macroeconomic softening has led to a gradual increase in delinquencies, prompting tighter credit policies for higher-risk customers and active management of loan tenors.
    - Loan origination is increasingly dominated by GoJek/GoPay users (approx. 60%), shifting away from the earlier reliance on Tokopedia e-commerce users.
    - Roughly one-third of the loan book is funded by GoTo’ s balance sheet, with the remaining two-thirds channeled primarily through Bank Jago; the on-balance-sheet portion is expected to gradually decline.

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

- Tokopedia and TikTok Shop Contribution
  - E-commerce service fees contributed 235 billion rupiah to Q3 adjusted EBITDA, a decreasing proportion of the total 950 billion rupiah group EBITDA.
  - The joint venture benefits from complementary user profiles: Tokopedia serves the affluent segment, while TikTok Shop captures the mass market.

Macroeconomic Outlook and Capital Allocation

- Indonesia Macro Environment
  - Rising oil prices (over $100/barrel) and government fuel subsidies are impacting Indonesia’s fiscal position, indirectly affecting consumer sentiment and leading to softer economic growth.
  - Management notes that while fundamentals are not collapsing, the environment is becoming tougher, with potential further pressure if energy prices remain high.
  - New Bank Indonesia regulations reduced QR code payment MDR to zero for transactions under 100,000 rupiah, expected to impact Q4 fintech EBITDA by roughly 50 billion rupiah.
- Index Removal and Share Buybacks
  - GoTo has already been removed from MSCI and most FTSE indices, meaning passive outflows are largely complete; remaining FTSE holdings are negligible (~1.5% of register down from 9%).
  - A potential downgrade of Indonesia to a "Standalone Market" by MSCI would negatively impact active fund inflows but would not cause further passive selling for GoTo specifically.
  - GoTo executed an aggressive share buyback in October, repurchasing 3% of its share register (worth close to 1 trillion rupiah) in two weeks.
  - Shareholders approved the cancellation of 322 billion treasury shares (27% of the register), with 25 trillion rupiah remaining in the buyback mandate.
  - Management believes the stock is trading at a significant discount, with a market cap of  $1.5billionagainst$ 1.25 billion in cash and equivalents, plus valuable stakes in Bank Jago and TikTok Shop.
- Leadership and Other Matters
  - Catherine’s departure was well-managed, with her government relations responsibilities distributed among the existing team; no single board member replacement is planned.

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

- There are no current plans for a dual listing or US listing.

AI Insight

- Regulatory Resilience via Diversification: While the 8% commission cap severely impacted two-wheeler transport margins, GoTo’s diversified revenue model in food delivery (merchant fees, ads) and strong fintech growth act as buffers, preventing the entire on-demand segment from turning unprofitable.
- Shift from Valuation to Cash Flow: Management’s emphasis on share buybacks and cancellation highlights a strategic pivot towards returning value to shareholders and correcting perceived undervaluation, leveraging a strong balance sheet ($1.25B cash) despite index outflows.
- Mass Market Penetration as Growth Engine: The divergence between slower GTV growth and faster order volume growth indicates a successful strategic shift towards high-frequency, lower-ticket mass-market transactions, which lowers customer acquisition costs and builds ecosystem stickiness.

章节

- 00:00:00 Opening Remarks and Disclaimer
  - CICC hosts a closed-door conference call for GoTo's Q3 2026 investor briefing, providing standard disclaimers regarding the non-advisory nature of the content and confidentiality requirements.
- 00:02:12 Q3 2026 Financial Highlights and Guidance
  - Joe Ellis presents GoTo's third consecutive quarter of net profit, highlighting group operating income growth, EBITDA increase to 950 billion rupiah, and a 16% rise in annual transacting users. He announces an upgraded group guidance to 35-37 trillion rupiah, with specific increases for fintech and a widened range for on-demand services due to regulatory uncertainties.
- 00:14:05 Macroeconomic Outlook and MSCI Index Impact
  - Management discusses the impact of rising oil prices and government subsidies on Indonesia's fiscal position and consumer sentiment. They address concerns about MSCI index downgrades, noting that most passive outflows have already occurred, and emphasize the company's strong cash position and share buyback program as a signal of undervaluation.
- 00:21:06 On-Demand Services: Regulatory Risks and Mass Market Strategy

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

    - Executives detail the impact of the 8% commission cap on two-wheeler transport, which turned the segment slightly negative margin. They discuss anticipated regulations for food delivery in 2027 and explain their mass market strategy, which involves pooling orders to lower delivery costs and compete with Shopee, while maintaining premium services.

- 00:36:27 Fintech Business Performance and Credit Risk Management
    - Simon Ho reports strong fintech growth with a 304% year-on-year EBITDA increase and a loan book of 12 trillion rupiah. He acknowledges manageable increases in delinquencies due to macro softening and outlines tightening credit policies. The payments business is now EBITDA positive, driven by structural user growth and ecosystem advantages over standalone wallets.

- 00:53:45 Tokopedia Contribution and Closing Q&A
    - Management clarifies that e-commerce service fees from Tokopedia/TikTok Shop contribute significantly but are becoming a smaller proportion of group EBITDA. They address the impact of new Bank Indonesia QR code pricing regulations on fintech revenue and confirm that former executive Catherine's responsibilities will be distributed among the team without a direct replacement.

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88