Charter Communications Inc. | North America

Moving w/ Greater Urgency, Stay EW

The secular challenges facing Cable remain, while Charter plus Cox is moving with more urgency and has some clear self-help levers. We await more details on the new go-to-market w/ updates around the product/offering, marketing & distribution on the come. Remain EW w/ $135 PT (~5x EBITDA).

Key Takeaways

- New operating model focused on: 1) returning to growth esp Internet and 2) driving efficiencies incl $2bn Opex savings prog over 18m, plus $1bn+ Cox synergies
- Cox strong start from 9/18 which has cut run-rate of Internet losses in half, increasing Mobile attach, Video pos in Oct; we improve Cox 4Q BB losses to -55K
- FY27 Capex $11bn ($9.5bn CHTR, $1.5bn Cox) ex transition expenses vs MSe $11.5bn incl $500mn txn exp and vs $13bn in FY26 pro-forma
- Pro-forma revs down -1.5% y/y and adj EBITDA down -4% y/y, total Internet losses of -233K (vs MSe -272K) w/ CHTR -156K (vs MSe -172K) & Cox -77K (vs MSe -100K)
- Leverage down to 3.9x, on-track for 3.5x w/i 3-years w/ majority of FCF going to debt reduction & plan to continue to repurchase stock this qtr (MSe ~$625mn)

Charter's first quarter following the Cox close had many moving parts as expected, with Street consensus largely yet to reflect pro-forma financials and KPIs. Like Comcast, Charter faces intense competition from aggressively priced Fiber and expanding FWA, which continues to take share among lower-income customers. They outlined that they haven't yet observed 'meaningful share loss' to Starlink, including in their subsidized rural footprint. That said, in their newest rural footprint, where they are building out, they are finding that SpaceX/Starlink has a higher penetration there than in the past. They spoke respectfully of SPCX/LEO players saying they are well capitalized with really smart engineers and don't discount them whatsoever. We have written that CHTR and/or CMCSA could hypothetically engage in a partnership with a Satellite company, leveraging their backhaul and in-building coverage with WiFi, although this would also likely be viewed by the market as letting the Trojan Horse in.

In response to the fierce competitive backdrop, Charter outlined a "new operating model" with 2 priorities: 1) restoring growth by improving broadband value relative to ARPU (they are only ~35% penetrated on Gigabit service today) and enhancing customer service, and 2) transforming its cost base, with ~$2bn in identified savings (focused on: [a] eliminating non-core project/functions, [b] reducing layers and [c] reducing vendors and finding procurement savings) incremental to the $1bn+ in Cox-related synergies. We await further detail on operating strategy from new COO Nick Jeffery and an update on the CFO search, following Kevin Howard's appointment as interim CFO on October 15.

As we noted in our Charter 3Q preview (see here), we continue to see the broader Cable sector as challenged with Broadband net losses remaining elevated at both legacy CHTR and Cox, with additional ARPU pressure as Spectrum rolls out into the Cox print. We are encouraged by the new focus on improving the Broadband net loss trajectory and appreciate the goal to maintain ARPU, although we do think that ~$70 Broadband APRU may prove too high in this backdrop, esp with competition set to take another step-function increase with SpaceX/Starlink getting V3 sats up and orbiting with Flight 15 a notable catalyst this week with an attempt to catch ship and booster. We remain EW Charter with our $135 PT maintained, implying ~5x fwd EBITDA and ~2.5-3x fwd LFCF (~35% FCF yield).

3Q Results: For 3Q, total pro-forma revs were down -1.5% to $16.5bn with actual revs of $14.9bn in-line with MS (at $14.7bn), while pro-forma adj. EBITDA was down -4.0% y/y with actual adj. EBITDA of $5.9bn slightly below MS (at $6.1bn). For KPIs we note that legacy CHTR figures are provided on both a resi + commercial basis, while for Cox only resi KPI figures are provided. Total resi BB net losses of -228K was ahead (vs. MS -271K), also at both legacy CHTR of -151K (vs. MS -171K) and Cox of -77K (vs. MS -100K). Total mobile net adds of +508K was well ahead (vs. MS +415K), at both legacy CHTR of +440K (vs. MS +383K) and Cox of +68K (vs. MS +32K).

For a summary of results vs. our initial 3Q estimate please see Exhibit 7 .

For a deeper dive into our fundamental view on Charter (including Cox) please see our reports (1) Patiently Waiting, Resume Equal-weight, (2) More Cable, Layering in Cox KPIs to Charter; Stay EW and (3) 3Q26 Preview - Talk to My Agent (25 Sep 2026).

Triangulating Legacy CHTR and Cox Contributions Given New Disclosures: The new trending disclosures (see here) provide less detail on Internet and Mobile service revenue and no longer break out Opex, adjusted EBITDA, or Capex between the legacy CHTR and Cox footprints. Reported actual 3Q results include a full quarter of legacy CHTR and 42 days of Cox, while PF results include both for the full quarter. We use the difference to isolate Cox's 50-day pre-close contribution, then estimate post-close opex and capex at the same daily rate to derive full-quarter contributions for each footprint and implied adj. EBITDA. For the internet and mobile service revenue split, we apply Cox's pre-close mix to its known post-close connectivity revenue.

See Exhibit 4, Exhibit 5 and Exhibit 6 for our attempt at triangulating the breakdown of 3Q Legacy CHTR and Cox based on the new disclosures.

Exhibit 3: Expect Cox's Resi BB Revenues to Be Pressured as (1) Spectrum Pricing Rolls in Cox Footprint and (2) BB Net Losses Continue

Changes to our estimates: For 4Q26 we adjust our Resi BB net losses to -220K (from -271K), with that slightly improvement from both legacy CHTR now at -165K (from -171K) and Cox at -55K (from-100K) to reflect a better than we had expected 3Q. We attempt to layer of Charter's targeted ~$2bn of Opex savings over the next 18 months beginning in FY27 and conservatively model Opex cost savings of $750mn in FY27 and $1.5Bn in FY28, with integration costs of ~$750mn in each of those years. We also reduced our buyback quantum to $625mn for 4Q (from $1.1bn). Within Cox, we largely maintain our expectation that Cox will see modest revenue and adjusted EBITDA declines at Cox through the end of the decade.

Please refer to Exhibit 9 for a detailed summary of changes to our forecasts.

RISK REWARD CHART AND OPTIONS IMPLIED PROBABILITIES (12M)

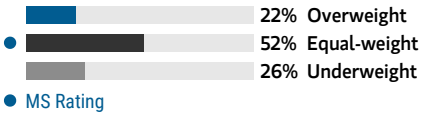

Key: Historical Stock Performance ● Current Stock Price ◆ Price Target

Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research, Morgan Stanley Institutional Equities Division. The probabilities of our Bull, Base, and Bear case scenarios playing out were estimated with implied volatility data from the options market as of 6 Nov 2026. All figures are approximate risk-neutral probabilities of the stock reaching beyond the scenario price in either three-months' or one-years' time. EQUAL-WEIGHT THESIS

- Industry structure remains challenging for Charter (and broader cable) due to persistent FWA and fiber and rise of Satellite resulting in continued resi broadband sub losses. Concerns also continue to persist around pricing headwinds.
- Post Cox merger, we continue to see the pro-forma entity as ex-growth even when layering in synergies.
- Expect Charter to reach its ~3.5x leverage goal within 3 years with excess cash from Cox deal geared towards incremental buybacks.
