LVMH

Beyond the print: What is the right multiple for 4% growth in luxury?

3Q26 result was a miss (Group Revenue/FLG: -1.8%/-3.1% vs BBG cons.) on the back of weak FLG OSG (-5%). We factor a weaker consumer backdrop for longer and cut FLG to -2/2/3% in 27-29e and EPS by 2-10%. New PT 470, 19x implied '27 PE.

LVMH results raise concerns on the timing and likelihood of inflection, we cut 4Q Group OG to 2.2%, FLG to -1.1% : LVMH reported a 3Q miss on FLG (-5% OG), driven by weak (mid-teens decline) performance from its Chinese cohort and one-off logistics issue in the US. Exit rates were better than quarter average and Dior outperformed within division. We lower our top-line estimates for 4Q26 both for FLG (to -1.1% from 1.2%, Chinese at -7%) and W&J (to 5% from 10%). We leave our Q4 numbers for W&S, P&C and Selective Retailing unchanged. Overall, this leads to a group OSG of 2.2% for 4Q26, vs 3.9% previously.

Beyond results: What if LVMH's new growth algorithm is just 4%? We take a more conservative view on FLG growth (China cluster growing slower for longer, slightly lower MT growth from the Americas), improving to c2.3% in '27e, stabilising at c3% through 2030e and 34.7% FLG margins in '27-30e. We expect Watches and Jewellery to still drive growth at HSD from 2026 to 2030. With minor adjustments in other divisions, LVMH 27-30e growth is now c4% (was 5% before) and EPS CAGR is c7%.

We still see upside, at least in high quality consumer context: While we cut our 27/28/29 EPS by 2%/7%/11% and add an extra 0.5% risk premium to our WACC (8.3%), our blended DCF- and SOTP-derived price target offers 22% upside. Our PT of EUR 470 implies a P/E of 19x, which looks reasonable in the context of high quality consumer companies which can deliver HSD EPS CAGR.

Key catalyst to watch; right-sizing mid-term expectations... with precision: LVMH stock will likely perform again once expectations are de-risked and negative earnings revisions, reflecting the significantly tougher consumer backdrop, are over. Near-term, expectations should neither give credit to aspirational consumer improvement nor to China sentiment becoming a tailwind. The market needs to see realistic estimates, with some optionality around self-help measures, highlighted by management, bearing fruits.

Why OVERWEIGHT?

We rate LVMH OW as we expect a turnaround in Tiffany and Dior (c20% for '25 sales) to drive MT growth of c5.5%. At 18x P/E, with near-term catalysts pointing to a growth acceleration, we see current levels as an attractive buying opportunity.

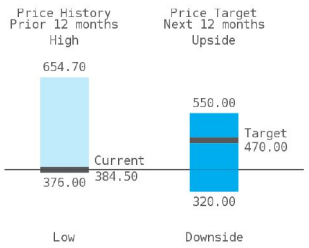

Upside case EUR 550.00

Our upside case assumes that the group continues to maintain high-single- to low-double-digit growth thanks to continuing outperformance of top category brands.

Downside case EUR 320.00

Our downside case assumes a negative growth for LVMH in 2025 followed by growth in line with the sector (low single digit). The group should also experience more subdued margin expansion.

Upside/Downside scenarios

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

Beyond the print: 22% upside for a 4% OG and 7% EPS CAGR looks reasonable to us

Our new base case assumes FLG stabilising at 3% in FY28-30e. Looking beyond results, we are testing a conservative scenario on LVMH, which assumes: 1) FLG staying negative (-1.1%) in 4Q and improving just to 2.3% in 2027e, stabilising at c3% through 2030e; 2) Accordingly, we cut our FLG margin to -90bps y/y in 2H26e, implying FY 2026 EBIT margin at 34.2%, down 70 bps y/y. After a 50bps FX-drive rebound in 2027e, we expect flat margins through 2030e consistent with 3% OSG expectations; 3) we expect Watches and Jewellery to still drive growth at HSD from 2026 to 2030e.

FY27-30e Group OSG is 4%, EPS CAGR is 7%: With minor adjustments in other divisions, and tax rate at 30% in 2027e, LVMH 27-30e growth is now c4% (was 5% before) and EPS CAGR is c7% (11% before). We cut our 27/28/29e EPS by 2%/7%/11%.

Even with the extra 0.5% risk premium and WACC of 8.3% we have 22% upside: To make our bear case even more consistent, we add a risk premium of 50 bps to our WACC to reflect the higher risk attached to LVMH cashflows.

Model Update

Overall, we lower our top-line estimates for 4Q26 following the 3Q print, lowering expectations in both FLG and W&J. We now expect Fashion and Leather Goods to decline -1.1% cFX (vs +1.2% previously), as we revise our expectations for most clusters to the downside, notably on China(we now expect -7% organic growth for China vs -1% previously). As mentioned, we lower our Q4 growth estimate for the W&J division, to 5% from 10%. We leave our Q4 numbers for W&S, P&C and Selective Retailing unchanged. Overall, this leads to a group OSG of 2.2% for 4Q26, vs 3.9% previously.

Consequently, we lower our EBIT margin growth expectations for 2H26 by 50bps in FLG and 40bps at group level, and now expect EBIT margins of 34.2% and 21.6% in FY26 for FLG and the Group respectively.

As detailed in the "Beyond the Print" section, we also revise down our medium-term expectations for growth, margins and EPS for LVMH. Overall, we decrease our price target to €470 (from €590) to reflect our estimate revisions, with a higher WACC of 8.3% to reflect the increased risk, and 2.5% long-term growth.

Conference Call feedback

LVMH hosted a conference call following the release of its 3Q26 results. 3 Key points from the call we found important: 1) In the short-term, exit rates are better than FLG's quarter (probably closer to -4%), FX adjusted 2H margins are likely to be down (top-line headwind hard to offset through costs); 2) On mid-term; US comps become more of a topic and are likely to be a 1H27 debate (although China was the key headwind in 3Q down mid-teens, NOT US); 3) Longer term; easy gains on costs have been reaped and top line could remain lower than previously expected, - this setup is less supportive for its margin outlook.

Outlook / Current Trading

Current Trading

- Exit rate did improve across the quarter, brand initiatives are paying off.
- September was better than quarter average for the Chinese cluster.

Trends by region/nationality

Asia / China

- Chinese cluster down mid-teens. Offshore was negative -MSD, onshore declined -DD. q/q swings perfectly mirror the comp base, improving at the end of the quarter.
- Japanese down MSD, closer to -4.5%.
- Molly Tea: difficult to size the impact, probably had a negative impact at the beginning of the quarter.
- Louis Boat : not making the comps mechanically tougher, it's only one store, and store is still always full, huge traffic and brand halo.

Europe / Middle East

- Europeans up modestly.
- ME down MSD, closer to -4.5%.
- Champagne and Sephora doing well in Europe in Q3.

Americas / US

- US cluster up MSD.
- Contributed a bit of the sequential slowdown, affected the most by the logistic issues.

Trends by division

Fashion & Leather Goods

- US demand continued to grow, Europe and Japan improved vs 1H.
- Slowdown came from Chinese demand, broad based.
- Dior, Loro Piana, Rimowa outperforming. LV a bit below the average, but not far.

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

- Dior is positive YTD, DD with the US cluster. It is flat in the quarter (not flattish, flat), due to the Chinese backdrop, outperforming with the Chinese.
- Dior Women's RTW is strong, indication that new collection is working
- Bags are more iconic items, takes longer for newness to feed through.
- A bit more than 1pp of growth for LV brand in the quarter due to a freight disruption. Hard to say if they will recoup them in Q4.
- Loewe, Fendi, Celine : Celine getting nice traction on recently launched soft bags, up DD in shoes, now getting the right level of traction to contribute to growth. Fendi, new designer needs more time to grow in the mix, the softer Baguette bag is doing well. Loewe, starting to see pockets of momentum.
- Vuitton has been the most resilient brand for a long time. Can be tempted to disrupt when things get tough, need to be hitting the sweet spot between desirability and perceived value.

Watches & Jewellery

- Tiffany: now 40% of stores renovated, outperforming. Icons performing well, legacy business weighing on growth.
- Slowdown due to 1/ Chinese demand (true at industry level), 2/ US sequential deceleration on tougher comps.
- W&J had pricing passed through as a result of Gold price. Pricing should moderate going forward, price impact will not be as strong. Q4: comp base will be a bit tougher for Bulgari.
- Q4: Bulgari comp base will be tougher, might impact performance, but they expect growth to continue.
- q/q suffered from tougher US comps at Tiffany. Tiffany part of the slowdown. Nothing structural : icons continuing to perform well and gain momentum, Silver and legacy business dragging.

Wines & Spirits

- All Champagne brands contributed to growth, positive mix from Krug & Dom Perignon. LSD price and LSD volume.
- Hennessy improved in Q3.

Selective Retailing

- Sephora: strong broad-based performance. LFL still half of the reported figures.

P&L comments

Margins

- FX will remain a headwind on margins, -70bps.
- Cost efficiencies remain a priority, but will not be able to offset short-term top-line pressures.

知识星球：前沿信息收录

知识星球：前沿信息收录
VX:FCCNN88

- They are working on costs, but short-term cost cutting has its limits, and it does not bring sales.
- FX impact turned positive on top line in Q3, but the timing on the margin impact is not the same, 2H FX margin impact will be negative, then will ease.
- A&P as a % of sales it has not changed between years, quite stable. Depends on how many creative push are you making across brands.

Guide to the Barclays Fundamental Equity Research Rating System:
Our coverage analysts use a relative rating system in which they rate stocks as Overweight, Equal Weight or Underweight (see definitions below) relative to other companies covered by the analyst or a team of analysts that are deemed to be in the same industry (the "industry coverage universe").

In addition to the stock rating, we provide industry views which rate the outlook for the industry coverage universe as Positive, Neutral or Negative (see definitions below). A rating system using terms such as buy, hold and sell is not the equivalent of our rating system. Investors should carefully read the entire research report including the definitions of all ratings and not infer its contents from ratings alone.

Stock Rating
Overweight - The stock is expected to outperform the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Equal Weight - The stock is expected to perform in line with the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Underweight - The stock is expected to underperform the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Rating Suspended - The rating and target price have been suspended temporarily due to market events that made coverage impracticable or to comply with applicable regulations and/or firm policies in certain circumstances including where the Investment Bank of Barclays Bank PLC is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or strategic transaction involving the company.

Industry View
Positive - industry coverage universe fundamentals/valuations are improving.

Neutral - industry coverage universe fundamentals/valuations are steady, neither improving nor deteriorating.

Negative - industry coverage universe fundamentals/valuations are deteriorating.

Below is the list of companies that constitute the "industry coverage universe":

European Luxury Goods & Specialty Retail
Burberry (BRBY.L)	Hermes (HRMS.PA)	Kering (PRTP.PA)
LVMH (LVMH.PA)	Moncler (MONC.MI)	Mulberry (MUL.L)
PRADA (1913.HK)	Richemont (CFR.S)	Salvatore Ferragamo (SFER.MI)

Guide to the Barclays Research Price Target:
Each analyst has a single price target on the stocks that they cover. The price target represents that analyst's expectation of where the stock will trade in the next 12 months. FA: Barclays Bank PLC and/or an affiliate beneficially owns 1% or more of a class of equity securities of LVMH, as calculated in accordance with US regulations.
J: Barclays Bank PLC and/or an affiliate is a liquidity provider and/or trades regularly in the securities by LVMH and/or in any related derivatives.

Valuation Methodology: Our price target is based on a blend of DCF and SOTP using EV/EBIT multiples for all segments. For our DCF we assume an equity risk premium of 4.2% and a beta of 1.2, which results in WACC of 8.3% after adding a 0.5% risk premium. We assume a long-term growth rate of 2.5%, in line with the sector.

Risks which May Impede the Achievement of the Barclays Research Valuation and Price Target: Risks to the downside include further deterioration of the macro environment and weakening momentum of its core brands including Louis Vuitton which could lead to further margin contraction. The various management changes that happened at the group over the recent years could drive execution risk. Besides, other structural issues (lower appetite for luxury goods for new generations; maturity of Chinese market...) also remain a long-term concern that could bring some downside. Risks to the upside include a higher-than-expected level of resilience of the US consumers and a faster recovery of the Chinese cohort would also be a tailwind. Considering the group's more disciplined opex approach, stronger topline growth could drive to clear margin upside potential.

Sustainable Investing Related Research: There is currently no globally accepted framework or definition (legal, regulatory or otherwise) of, nor market consensus as to what constitutes a 'sustainable', 'ESG', 'green', 'climate-friendly' or an equivalent company, investment, strategy or consideration or what precise attributes are required to be eligible to be categorised by such terms. This means there are different ways to evaluate a company or an investment and so different values may be placed on certain sustainability credentials as well as adverse ESG-related impacts of companies and ESG controversies. The evolving nature of sustainable investing considerations, models and methodologies means it can be challenging to definitively and universally classify a company or investment under a sustainable investing label and there may be areas where such companies and investments could improve or where adverse ESG-related impacts or ESG controversies exist. The evolving nature of sustainable finance related regulations and the development of jurisdiction-specific regulatory criteria also means that there is likely to be a degree of divergence as to the interpretation of such terms in the market. We expect industry guidance, market practice, and regulations in this field to continue to evolve.

Any information, data, image, or other content including from a third party source contained, referred to herein or used for whatsoever purpose by Barclays or a third party ("Information"), in relation to any actual or potential 'ESG', 'sustainable' or equivalent objective, issue, factor or consideration is not intended to be relied upon for ESG or sustainability classification, regulatory regime or industry initiative purposes ("ESG Regimes"), unless otherwise stated. Nothing in these materials, including any images included therein, is intended to convey, suggest or indicate that Barclays considers or represents any product, service, person or body mentioned in these materials as meeting or qualifying for any ESG or sustainability classification, label or similar standards that may exist under ESG Regimes. Barclays has not conducted any assessment of compliance with ESG Regimes. Parties are reminded to make their own assessments for these purposes.
