Hermes

Beyond the Print: a Ferrari-esque recovery?

3Q26 sales were up 4% cFX (cons. at 5%). q/q acceleration in LG at +10.8% cFX and non-leather negative & decelerating. Beyond the print, we draw parallels between RMS de-rating and RACE last year with a downward cFX growth reset as a first step. We cut FY26/27 EPS by 2/7%. PT cut to 1,570. Remain EW

Results key take: Miss vs consensus. Hermes reported Q3-26 revenue of €4.1bn and cFX growth of +4.3%, which missed cons. of +5.3%. Leather Goods drove growth and accelerated at +10.8% cFX, above cons. at 10.0%, while the non-leather business was overall slightly negative, mostly due to volume-driven métiers like fashion accessories.

Beyond results: Further cFX reset needed, we see limited downside to consensus EPS: We remain cautious on Hermes but can see a path to a mid-term "Ferrari-esque" recovery (as we and our Autos team argue in detail in our joint note published today, Observations and client feedback on RACE vs Hermes: History repeating itself?) which would in turn also alleviate RACE's multiple anchor. Hermes current setup and market scepticism remind us very much of RACE following its Oct-25 CMD, when a reset of mid-term growth expectations drove a significant de-rating. Hermes now finds itself in a similar position: following a more cautious tone from the company since the beginning of the year, expectations for 12m forward cFX growth have fallen from HSD/LDD (9/10%) to M/HSD (6-7%), with the stock sharply de-rating as a consequence (12m fwd P/E from c.47x in mid-Jan to c.27x currently). As with Ferrari, consistent HSD/DD growth and wide outperformance vs the industry were what justified Hermes valuation premium, and with both faltering at the same time, valuations have taken a hit. Ferrari shares only recovered once sales growth expectations began to be revised upwards, and Hermès has not reached that point yet. We believe we would first need to see a medium-term consensus reset, driven by lower ex-Leather Goods and APAC expectations. We see at least another 1-2 quarters before a potential inflection, i.e. a positive result followed by upward revisions, might be possible. We remain EW.

Model Update: FY26/27 cFx growth of 5.4/5.8%, EPS down c2/7%: We lower our top-line estimates for 4Q26 from 6.9% to 5% as we take a more cautious view on APAC given continued weakness in China. We slightly lower our Leather Goods 4Q26 growth by 50bps to 10.5%, and cut RTW growth to -1% from 4%. This brings us to a FY26 growth forecast of 5.4% cFX at group level, from 6.9% previously. We decrease our FY26/27 EBIT margin estimate to 40.0/40.4%. Our estimate changes imply a 2-7% EPS decrease in FY26-27 (Figure 11). We lower our PT to EUR1,570 from EUR 1,660 with unchanged DCF assumptions at 7.7% WACC and 3.5% long-term growth.

Results details: Deceleration in most regions. Sequential deceleration vs 2Q26 was largely due to Americas, which reported +8.8% cFX vs 2Q26 at 13.7%, and consensus at +11.0%. APAC excl. Japan posted another weak quarter of flat growth (below cons. at 1.5%). Growth was driven by Japan (at 9.6% cFX vs cons. +11.2%) and Europe excl. France (at 9.5%, in line with cons.) with solid growth in all countries. France grew +3.6% cFX, below consensus of +4.6% cFX. Other regions (mostly ME) declined -4.5% cFX, significantly missing cons. at -0.2% cFX. By metier: Leather Goods was a standout at up +10.8% cFX, above cons. of +10.0% and accelerating vs 2Q26. The RTW & Accessories division was down -2.0% cFX, well below cons. at +2.3%, and continuing to be a drag on the group's performance. Within the division, RTW was actually positive, while fashion accessories were a clear drag. The Silk & Textiles division grew +1.4% cFX, a miss vs cons. of +6.5% in a category that is typically more exposed to the aspirational consumer. The Perfumes & Beauty division improved sequentially to +7.5% cFX growth, while Watches underperformed at -6% cFX. Finally, Other Hermes sector was down -1.1% cFX (vs. cons. 3.8%), but within that Jewellery was overall positive.

Why EQUAL WEIGHT?

Thanks to its high level of exclusivity, superior growth and resilient margins, Hermes is one of the highest-quality stocks that we have under coverage. However, a slow start to 2026 and disruption from MENA may raise investor concerns around growth levels going forward.

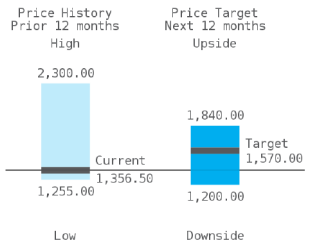

Upside case EUR 1,840.00

Hermes maintains strong double-digit sales growth and EBIT margin reaches the mid-40s range.

Downside case EUR 1,200.00

Assume single-digit top-line growth as other segments grow at mid-single digits, diluting the higher structural growth of the Leather Goods division. EBIT margin remains in the 36-37% range. Terminal growth set at 2.5%.

Beyond the print: Ferrari re-rating as a playbook

We are cautious on Hermes in the short term, but can see a path to a mid-term 'Ferrari-esque' recovery (which would in turn also alleviate RACE's multiple anchor). BARC EU Autos and Luxury teams recently discussed Ferrari with Luxury investors. Engagement on the part of Luxury investors on RACE was very high. Hermes remains RACE's most important valuation benchmark. And as such RACE trades much more in line with the Luxury peer group than with the Automotive peer group. We also think that RACE has recently benefited from an intra-sector rotation within Luxury, and especially at the expense of Hermes. However, away from multiple correlation and rotation dynamics, Hermes's current setup and the market scepticism it is facing also remind us very much of RACE in Oct 2025 following its CMD (with a very prominent reset of mid-term growth expectations). At c.22% P/E spread, Hermes acts as an anchor to RACE, while RACE is now viewed much more favourably again - a playbook for Hermes's recovery?

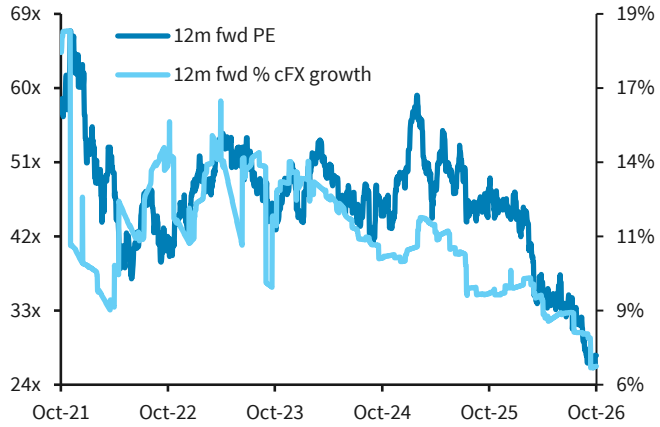

Hermes now finds itself in a similar position: The de-rating of Ferrari caused by the downward revision in expectations following the Oct-25 CMD echoes the recent fall in Hermes' PE. Following a more cautious tone from the company since the beginning of the year, expectations for 12m forward cFX growth began to fall from HSD/LDD (9/10%) to the current M/HSD (6/7%) with the stock sharply de-rating as a consequence (12m fwd PE fell from c.47x mid-Jan to the current c.27x). Hermes has historically been widely regarded as a highly defensive name in an otherwise fairly cyclical industry. Similarly to Ferrari, the consistent delivery of HSD/DD growth and wide outperformance vs the industry were what justified Hermes' valuation premium, and with both faltering at the same time, valuations took a hit.

Expectations beat not impossible, could be a medium-term catalyst: Ferrari shares only recovered after expectations for sales growth began to be revised to the upside, and Hermes has not turned that corner yet. We believe that we would first need to see medium-term consensus revisions, driven by ex-leather goods and APAC downward reset. Unlike Ferrari, Hermes guides only on Leather goods (c.45% of sales) and thus any expectations reset is likely to be driven more by changes in analyst forecasts and consensus estimates than by management guidance. We also believe that the slowdown is mostly attributable to issues related to the aspirational consumer in China, to which Hermes is less exposed than peers, but not immune. This can be seen in the recent of the APAC excl. Japan region and the non-leather business, which triggered the revision in expectations, while Leather Goods and Europe/Americas have remained more resilient.

The direction is right, but we are not there yet. Post 3QA, we have taken down group 4Q26 group cFX growth to 5.0%, with leather goods at 10.5% and non-leather to 1.3%. We are 130bp below consensus on FY26 cFX growth and 200bp below on FY27 cFX growth, and expect the Street to converge with our numbers over time. Before that, we believe we are at least 1-2 quarters away from an organic growth revision inflection (i.e., the possibility of a positive result and upward revisions). We remain EW.

Model Update

We lower our top-line estimates for 4Q26 from 6.9% to 5% as we take a more cautious view on APAC given continued weakness in China. We slightly lower our Leather Goods 4Q26 growth by 50bps to 10.5%, and cut RTW growth to -1% from 4%.

This brings us to a FY26 growth forecast of 5.4% cFX at group level, from 6.9% previously. We decrease our FY26/27 EBIT margin estimate to 40.0/40.4%. Our estimate changes imply a 2-7% EPS decrease in FY26-27 (Figure 11). As a result, we lower our PT to EUR1,570 from EUR 1,660 with unchanged DCF assumptions at 7.7% WACC and 3.5% long-term growth.

Guide to the Barclays Fundamental Equity Research Rating System:
Our coverage analysts use a relative rating system in which they rate stocks as Overweight, Equal Weight or Underweight (see definitions below) relative to other companies covered by the analyst or a team of analysts that are deemed to be in the same industry (the "industry coverage universe").

In addition to the stock rating, we provide industry views which rate the outlook for the industry coverage universe as Positive, Neutral or Negative (see definitions below). A rating system using terms such as buy, hold and sell is not the equivalent of our rating system. Investors should carefully read the entire research report including the definitions of all ratings and not infer its contents from ratings alone.

Stock Rating
Overweight - The stock is expected to outperform the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Equal Weight - The stock is expected to perform in line with the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Underweight - The stock is expected to underperform the unweighted expected total return of the industry coverage universe over a 12-month investment horizon.

Rating Suspended - The rating and target price have been suspended temporarily due to market events that made coverage impracticable or to comply with applicable regulations and/or firm policies in certain circumstances including where the Investment Bank of Barclays Bank PLC is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or strategic transaction involving the company.

Industry View
Positive - industry coverage universe fundamentals/valuations are improving.

Neutral - industry coverage universe fundamentals/valuations are steady, neither improving nor deteriorating.

Negative - industry coverage universe fundamentals/valuations are deteriorating.

Below is the list of companies that constitute the "industry coverage universe":

*This is the closing price referenced in the publication, which may not be the last available closing price at the time of publication.

Historical stock prices and price targets may have been adjusted for stock splits and dividends.

FA: Barclays Bank PLC and/or an affiliate beneficially owns 1% or more of a class of equity securities of Hermes, as calculated in accordance with US regulations.
J: Barclays Bank PLC and/or an affiliate is a liquidity provider and/or trades regularly in the securities by Hermes and/or in any related derivatives.
K: Barclays Bank PLC and/or an affiliate has received non-investment banking related compensation (including compensation for brokerage services, if applicable) from Hermes within the past 12 months.
N: Hermes is, or during the past 12 months has been, a non-investment banking client (non-securities related services) of Barclays Bank PLC and/or an affiliate.

Valuation Methodology: Our price target is based on a DCF where we assume an equity risk premium of 4.2% and a beta of 1.1, leading to a WACC of 7.5%. Considering Hermes' top-line growth outperformance and higher resilience, we assume long-term growth of 3.5% vs 2.5% for the sector.

Risks which May Impede the Achievement of the Barclays Research Valuation and Price Target: Risks to the downside include slowdown in demand, particularly in Asia and sustainability of growth algorithm in leather goods at scale. Beyond that, a much weaker macro environment than expected could have a stronger impact on the high-end consumer cohort, which is usually perceived as more resilient. Upside risks include significant acceleration of APAC/China demand, immediate recovery of MENA cohort to DD growth, significant expansion outside Leather Goods division.

Russia: This material is not intended for investors who are not Qualified Investors according to the laws of the Russian Federation as it might contain information about or description of the features of financial instruments not admitted for public offering and/or circulation in the Russian Federation and thus not eligible for non-Qualified Investors. Sustainable Investing Related Research: There is currently no globally accepted framework or definition (legal, regulatory or otherwise) of, nor market consensus as to what constitutes a 'sustainable', 'ESG', 'green', 'climate-friendly' or an equivalent company, investment, strategy or consideration or what precise attributes are required to be eligible to be categorised by such terms. This means there are different ways to evaluate a company or an investment and so different values may be placed on certain sustainability credentials as well as adverse ESG-related impacts of companies and ESG controversies. The evolving nature of sustainable investing considerations, models and methodologies means it can be challenging to definitively and universally classify a company or investment under a sustainable investing label and there may be areas where such companies and investments could improve or where adverse ESG-related impacts or ESG controversies exist. The evolving nature of sustainable finance related regulations and the development of jurisdiction-specific regulatory criteria also means that there is likely to be a degree of divergence as to the interpretation of such terms in the market. We expect industry guidance, market practice, and regulations in this field to continue to evolve.

Any information, data, image, or other content including from a third party source contained, referred to herein or used for whatsoever purpose by Barclays or a third party ("Information"), in relation to any actual or potential 'ESG', 'sustainable' or equivalent objective, issue, factor or consideration is not intended to be relied upon for ESG or sustainability classification, regulatory regime or industry initiative purposes ("ESG Regimes"), unless otherwise stated. Nothing in these materials, including any images included therein, is intended to convey, suggest or indicate that Barclays considers or represents any product, service, person or body mentioned in these materials as meeting or qualifying for any ESG or sustainability classification, label or similar standards that may exist under ESG Regimes. Barclays has not conducted any assessment of compliance with ESG Regimes. Parties are reminded to make their own assessments for these purposes.
