Buy: Another debt milestone achieved

Equities
Oil & Gas

United States

- 3Q26 beat driven by lower costs and strong cash flow
- Principal debt falls below USD10bn; next milestones set at USD6bn and for share buybacks to resume
- Maintain Buy rating and USD75 TP

Another beat. Occidental Petroleum (Oxy) reported 3Q26 net revenue of USD6.8bn and adjusted EPS of USD1.92, beating the Bloomberg consensus estimate of USD1.28. Excluding derivative gains and other items, the adjusted segment income of USD3.0bn declined by 20% q-o-q due primarily to lower Midstream & Marketing income of USD309m vs the USD(100)-100m guidance range. The adjusted Oil & Gas income of USD2.7bn slipped 3% q-o-q due to higher lease operating costs and slightly lower domestic volumes. Oxy generated USD3.7bn in cash from operations and USD2.8bn in FCF before returning USD522m to shareholders and paying down another USD1.8bn of debt (USD10.5bn YTD).

New debt milestone. From a high of USD28.9bn following the CrownRock acquisition, Oxy's principal debt balance fell below USD10bn at quarter end. This is only two quarters since the company outlined the USD10bn milestone in the 1Q26 earnings presentation. Management is now targeting a new milestone of USD6bn in principal debt, which we believe can be achieved in 2027 at a WTI oil price of USD82/b. Management plans to resume share repurchases when the balance sheet shifts to a net cash position, with the company to build cash ahead of preferred equity redemptions in August 2029.

Integrating CO_2 and power for EOR. Oxy has an extensive footprint for Permian enhanced oil recovery (EOR). The company secured CO_2 offtake from two gas processing plants equivalent to 15% of its 2026 purchases, and estimates gas processing and power generation could supply 10Mtpa and 15Mtpa, respectively. Sourcing sufficient volume of CO_2 has historically been a challenge, which motivated the company to develop direct air capture technologies. Management estimates CO_2 EOR in unconventionals can double recovery and drive low F&D costs of USD6-8/boe.

Updating estimates. Oxy provided 4Q O&G production guidance that is slightly below our estimates, while costs are higher than we had been modeling. Incorporating management's commentary on regional production trends, we lower our 2027 O&G production estimate by 7Mboepd, or a modest 1%. We also lower our 2027-28e Midstream & Marketing income estimates, reflecting a conservative view that inefficiencies will wane as additional gas take-away capacity comes online.

Maintain Buy rating and USD75 TP. Our DCF-based TP implies 33.0% upside and is equivalent to 5.9x our 2027e EBITDA estimate (was 6.7x), which is above the 5-year average of 5.3x for an improving balance sheet. Oxy trades at 4.5x its blended forward EV/EBITDA, a c20% discount to its 1Y average of 5.6x per Bloomberg. We believe Oxy's improving balance sheet remains and expect the company to generate strong cash flow for further deleveraging.

Recent trends and achievements

While Oxy is focused on boosting recovery, management is also laying the groundwork for new deepwater activity. UpstreamOnline reports that Oxy has built up two decades of deepwater (water depth of 4,600-5,000 feet) activity in the US Gulf, centered on drilling and completing 20 wells in the Bandit discovery with Chevron (CVX US, CMP USD211.22, Buy, TP USD263.00, covered by Kim Fustier). Bandit began producing in 2026, but Oxy plans for additional exploration and appraisal work nearby that could be developed as a subsea tieback. The company may seek a dynamically positioned drillship or semisubmersible rig for its new Gulf campaign, with drilling expected to begin in 2027 and activity potentially continuing through 2045.

Separately, Oxy contracted Noble Drilling's (NE US, CMP USD41.09, not rated) Globetrotter I for a new contract offshore Peru starting in 2Q 2027.

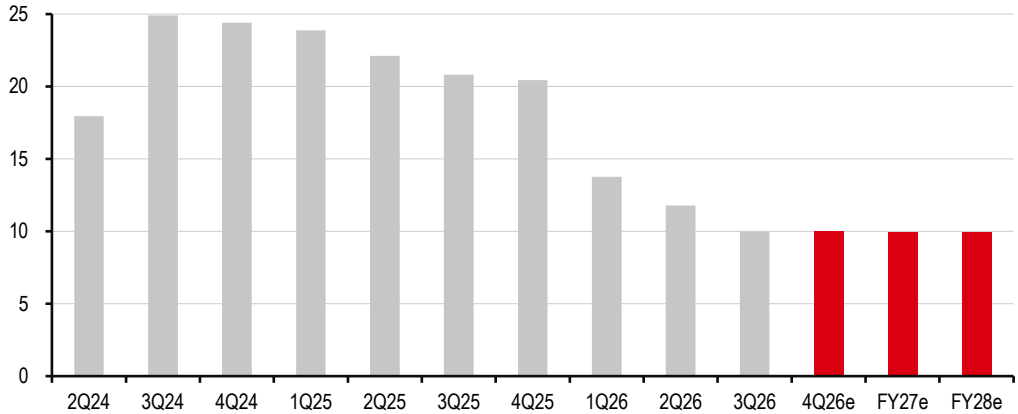

Model update

Oxy provided 4Q26 guidance for oil and gas production to increase by 23 Mboed or 1.6% q-o-q at the midpoint to 1,430-1,470 Mboed. Production is expected to increase in the Permian (+18 Mboed), US Gulf (+6 Mboed), and internationally (+6 Mboed) but decline in the Rockies and other domestic regions (-7 Mboed). Overall, management expect global production to be flat on a y-o-y basis (unchanged from last quarter), with growth in the Permian offsetting declines in all other regions.

Assuming an average realized worldwide oil price of USD85.5/b in 4Q, we forecast Oxy to generate USD2bn in adjusted FCF after dividends (down USD334m or 14% q-o-q but up 121% y-o-y). With modest debt maturities of USD48m and USD14m in 2027 and 2028, respectively, we expect Oxy to accelerate debt retirement and build cash over the next several quarters.

We introduce our 4Q26 estimates in this report.

Occidental Petroleum OXY US

Buy

Current price: USD56.39

Target price: USD75.00

Up/downside: +33.0%

Priced at close of 10 November 2026
Source: Bloomberg, HSBC estimates

Valuation

Methodology: DCF methodology (FCF).

Assumptions: WACC assumption of 6.6% (from 6.0% and below Bloomberg's 7.9% estimate) incorporates HSBC Global Investment Research's global risk-free rate of 4.25% (unchanged) and US equity risk premium of 6.00% (up from 4.0% due to the addition of an incremental 200bps risk premium for rising interest rates and the risk to global growth from higher energy prices), and a beta of 0.375 (from 0.361; per Bloomberg). We assume an exit EV/EBITDA multiple for our estimate terminal value beyond 2030e of 5.6x (from 5.7x; trailing 12-month average per Bloomberg).

Our TP of USD75 (unchanged) implies 33% upside. With proceeds from asset sales and higher oil prices, the company has significantly improved its balance sheet and positions the core Oil & Gas business in short cycle US land production, which should generate excess cash for further deleveraging and opportunistic buybacks. Our estimates assume modest share repurchases, which could accelerate and support the stock.

Risks to our view

Downside risks

- High ownership concentration by a single shareholder may limit management's ability to execute on its strategy.
- Oxy typically refrains from actively hedging commodity prices, where volatility can impact free cash flow and limit the company's ability to deleverage and return cash to shareholders. The company hedged 100mb of production for March to December, which negatively impacted O&G income in 1Q26 but contributed to gains in 2Q26.
- Oxy's long-term growth is focused on carbon management, which is receiving unprecedented government support. A change in the administration or corporate demand for CO_2 removal credits could impact growth and returns from Low Carbon Ventures.
- Rising interest rates could increase Oxy's WACC above our expectation.
- Sustained high commodity prices could impact global growth and lessen demand for oil and gas.

Our DCF valuation excludes potential share repurchases or additional debt retirement

Important disclosures

Equities: Stock ratings and basis for financial analysis

HSBC and its affiliates, including the issuer of this report ("HSBC") believes an investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances such as the investor's existing holdings, risk tolerance and other considerations and that investors utilise various disciplines and investment horizons when making investment decisions. Ratings should not be used or relied on in isolation as investment advice. Different securities firms use a variety of ratings terms as well as different rating systems to describe their recommendations and therefore investors should carefully read the definitions of the ratings used in each research report. Further, investors should carefully read the entire research report and not infer its contents from the rating because research reports contain more complete information concerning the analysts' views and the basis for the rating.

HSBC assigns ratings on the following basis:

The target price is based on the analyst's assessment of the stock's actual current value, although we expect it to take six to 12 months for the market price to reflect this. When the target price is more than 20% above the current share price, the stock will be classified as a Buy; when it is between 5% and 20% above the current share price, the stock may be classified as a Buy or a Hold; when it is between 5% below and 5% above the current share price, the stock will be classified as a Hold; when it is between 5% and 20% below the current share price, the stock may be classified as a Hold or a Reduce; and when it is more than 20% below the current share price, the stock will be classified as a Reduce.

Our ratings are re-calibrated against these bands at the time of any 'material change' (initiation or resumption of coverage, change in target price or estimates).

Upside/Downside is the percentage difference between the target price and the share price.

Rating distribution for long-term investment opportunities

As of 30 September 2026, the distribution of all independent ratings published by HSBC is as follows:

Buy	60%	(12% of these provided with Investment Banking Services in the past 12 months)
Hold	35%	(12% of these provided with Investment Banking Services in the past 12 months)
Sell	4%	(10% of these provided with Investment Banking Services in the past 12 months)

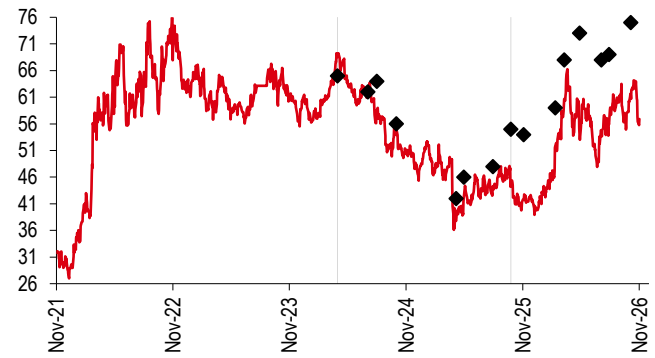

For the purposes of the distribution above the following mapping structure is used under our current model Buy = Buy, Hold = Hold and Reduce = Sell. For rating definitions please see "Stock ratings and basis for financial analysis" above.

For the distribution of non-independent ratings published by HSBC, please see the disclosure page available at http://www.hsbcnet.com/gbm/financial-regulation/investment-recommendations-disclosures.
